1. On 8 May one Chinese Communist paratroop regiment moved south from Chinchou (121-07, 41-07). Tientsin was the first destination, but the ultimate destination was unknown.
2. The majority of the personnel of this regiment came from the Northeast, and a small portion were former students of the North China Military College. The regiment began training in November 1950 at Chinchou, using Hsuehchiat'un (5641/1367/1470) Airfield (sic). The regiment underwent eighteen months of political indoctrination and military training under Soviet direction.
